Service Day

Last week, all the students from my school did something special. We didn't have lessons. We didn't stay at school. We went outside. We went into our town. We did community service for the whole day.

We all did different things to help. Some classes planted trees. Other classes helped old people. My class cleaned up litter in our community. We cleaned up a few parks. We also cleaned up some streets. We wore gloves. We put all the litter into trash bags. Our teacher and some parents helped us and kept us safe.

It wasn't easy, but I enjoyed it. I didn't earn any money or get anything in return. But people around our town were happy, and I felt happy. I'm proud that I made our community better for all the people living here. I want to do it again with my family.
Jennifer, 12

There are many reasons you shouldn't litter. It's bad for the environment. It hurts plants and animals. It makes cities ugly and smelly. It's against the law. There is another reason that may surprise you. Littering is expensive. It costs everyone money.

The government pays workers to clean up litter. Litter also pollutes water. We all use water. The government must spend money to make clean water.

People pay taxes to the government. The government decides how to use those taxes. The government uses some taxes to make cities better. The more money they use to clean up litter, the less there is to build new roads, schools, and parks.
