

I. READING

Coco Chanel (19 August 1883 - 10 January 1971), a famous fashion designer, revolutionized the fashion industry with her innovative designs and elegant simplicity. She was born in a poorhouse in the small city of Saumur, France, and christened Gabrielle. Her mother died when she was just six. This left her father with Gabrielle and four other young children. He sent them away to grow up with relatives.

In her early twenties, while she was singing in cafes, she met two wealthy men, a soldier, and an Englishman Arthur Capel. With the men's money and contacts, in 1913 she set up a shop in Paris selling ladies' hats. By the 1920s, she had expanded her business to a clothing shop. In the early 1920s she introduced Chanel No. 5, which became one of the world's favorite perfumes.

In 1939 World War II began. Coco had worked for a short time as a nurse in World War I, but during World War II she went to Switzerland. She returned to France in 1953 and dressed many Hollywood stars, such as Liz Taylor and Katharine Hepburn. Before her death, in 1969, Katharine Hepburn had starred in a Broadway musical about her life.
